A DISHONEST NATION

One of the most remarkable moments of revolution is that presented two hundred in New York by the Rev. Dr. William Sloane of Michigan, on the moral awakening now going on in the country, a considerable extract from this sermon appears in yesterday's Ardmoreite. If you overlooked it just up front paper and do not read it, it is a sermon calculated to anger the patriotic and to bring consternation to the more money changers. It is an appeal for a new and a stronger national conscience. It is based on the classification of the United States as a nation discontent.

This sermon is not a temporary production. Indeed it is one of the most striking presentations of developing individualism that has yet been made. It calls attention to an enormous output of periodical literature, scientific books, popular novels, expert reports and other forms of expression making exposure of existing evils and recommending our reaching remedies. To this list of propaganda the disengaged preacher might have added the splendid achievements of independent, honest and fearless newspapers, and the numerous thoughtful effective plays that have been written on historical and political themes. The aggregation of forces now operating along the lines of sound reform, in awakening and crystallizing a better national conscience, is a strong expression, and it is constantly adding new force.

HOSES AND ALFALFA

The possibilities of alfalfa in Southern Kansas and Northern Oklahoma are becoming more and more apparent every day of the year. In alfalfa fields the farmers have wealth the limit of which is fixed only by the limit of the land they can use for raising hogs and stock. There are millions of dollars in the alfalfa fields and the farmers who know how are getting the dollars out of the product from these fields.

Several years ago John Cudahy told the Eagle that Wichita would eventually be in the center of the greatest hog producing country in the world. He based his prediction on the fact that the alfalfa fields would enable the farmers to raise hogs at a small cost and the people would learn that raising hogs on alfalfa was the best and quickest way to make money on a farm. Farmers all over this section are now proving that the prediction of John Cudahy was true and that he knew enough to speak.

The name of Roy Scott Farmer and stock raiser near Mound is a case in point which shows the wisdom of the alfalfa and hog combination. Mr. Scott marketed 65 hogs in this city last week for which he received $159.50. Last spring he went to Colorado, where he purchased over 600 pigs, for which he paid $25.00. He shipped them to the Kansas farm and fed them on alfalfa and corn. The net profit of the transaction he places at about $4.00.

With the packing houses located here and with the farms which produce the alfalfa at a small cost the future of the hog raising industry can be seen by those who care to give the matter a moment's notice. Alfalfa has proved its worth in many respects but every year it is becoming more and more valuable to the farmers. It is a certain crop and combined with the hogs it is a wealth producer which is astonishing—Wichita Eagle.

The Eagle might have included Southern Oklahoma in the list too for this is going to be the alfalfa producing section of the state. The farmers are beginning to realize what alfalfa and hogs mean down here.

THE POSTAGE STAMP

Country. On postage stamp is seen Bishop Preacher of Ardmore at the time when he, too, did some propagandizing in behalf of the Negro. And so it seems the motto.

Again, if one were obliged to carry the same manual of music, he would hardly be able to carry his bag of postage stamps, for in spite of all this it would be difficult to find the man who does not know that he has good handwriting.

The handwriting is worthy of the
